Course Description: Sociology is the systematic study of human society, groups and interactions, in particular, present-day societies. Sociologists study the organization, institutions, and development of societies. Sociology's subject matter is diverse, ranging from crime to religion, from the family to the state, from the divisions of sexuality, gender, race and social class to the shared beliefs of a common culture, and from social stability to radical change in whole societies. Unifying the study of these diverse subjects of study is sociology's approach to understanding how human action and consciousness both shape and are shaped by surrounding cultural and social structures. The course will consist of interactive learning activities and exercises designed to introduce key concepts, as well as a variety of group exercises in which students will be expected to apply concepts to materials such as readings, videos, current events, life experiences, and activities. The primary aim of the course is to introduce you to sociology as a way of thinking about and making sense of the society and world in which you live.

Course Objectives: By the end of this course, students will be able to:

Describe and apply the sociological imagination

Articulate the primary tenets of sociological theories

Describe and understand a variety of research methods used in sociology

Analyze and articulate the role of social institutions in society

Analyze and articulate the role of culture in society

Understand and describe findings of empirical evidence

Analyze and describe the social forces that have shaped the student's life

Course Materials: The text for this course will be Introduction to Sociology 2E

Students are expected to bring a device (laptop, tablet or phone) to class so they can access a digital copy of the textbook.

Course Requirements and Grades: Final course grades are based on the following:

Attendance and Participation: Class attendance is required and roll will be taken every day. Regular participation is also required. This is worth 20% of your final grade.

Quizzes: There will be a weekly quiz based on readings. Quizzes will be administered at various times without necessarily being scheduled for a certain class meeting. Quizzes are worth 20% of the total grade.

Midterm: A short answer and/or multiple-choice examination will be given approximately half way through the course. The test will cover all readings, lectures, and discussion up to the date of the test. It is worth 20% of the total grade.

Reflection Paper: Students will be assigned a 2-page reflection paper based on the viewing of documentary that covers a sociological topic. Reflection papers are due at the end of the 3rd week of the term. Students may present their papers for extra credit. Reflections Papers are worth 20%.

Final examination: The final examination may include short answer, multiple choice, and short essay questions. The test will cover all readings, lectures, and discussion up to the date of the test, that is, it is cumulative. Administered the last day of class, the final exam is worth 20% of the final grade.

University Academic Integrity Policy: The University defines academic misconduct as any act by a student that misrepresents the students' own academic work or that compromises the academic work of another. Scholastic misconduct includes (but is not limited to) cheating on assignments or examinations; plagiarizing, i.e. misrepresenting as one's own work any work done by another; submitting the same paper, or substantially similar papers, to meet the requirements of more than one course without the approval and consent of the instructors concerned; sabotaging another's work. Within these general definitions, however, Instructors determine what constitutes academic misconduct in the courses they teach. Students found guilty of academic misconduct in any portion of the academic work face penalties ranging from lowering of their course grade to awarding a grade of F for the entire course. When completing an assignment for this course, students are expected to do original work for the assignment and to not reuse work they may have done in previous courses or other settings unless the instructor grants specific prior approval. Cheating is defined as the giving or receiving of aid (whether written, oral or otherwise) in order for a student to receive undeserved credit on class work, homework, tests or any other assignment that is his or her own responsibility. Plagiarism violates the central core of educational philosophy. It involves stealing another person's work and claiming it as one's own. It occurs whenever one directly copies another person's intellectual effort and integrates it into his/her class work without giving proper credit to the author. Paraphrasing is defined as "a restatement of a text or passage giving the meaning in another form" (Webster's New Universal Unabridged Dictionary, 1996). When one paraphrases but intentionally omits authorship of the work, this, too, is a serious violation of academic honesty. All students have an individual responsibility to understand what cheating, plagiarism, and paraphrasing are. The student must also be aware that the consequences for cheating and plagiarism or for paraphrasing without proper attribution are severe. Whenever you have doubt about what constitutes cheating plagiarism, contact your instructor.
