Course Description:

Marketing is more than just advertising and selling. Marketing is a critical business function, which guides organizations in identifying, selecting and servicing their markets. The marketing process involves understanding customer needs, and developing marketing strategies and programs that build customer relationships and capture value for the firm. This course provides students with an introduction to the fundamental principles of Marketing.

Marketing involves two distinct but interrelated sets of activities. The first set starts with identifying consumers and their needs and ends with positioning a product or service to satisfy those needs and differentiate it from competition. The second set of activities involves developing the most appropriate “marketing mix” for the product or service. Marketing mix activities involve

1) product planning, branding, and packaging, 2) setting the right price, 3) selecting the right dealers and retail outlets to place the product, and 4) Promoting the product through displays, advertising, and incentives that motivate consumers to try and/or purchase the product repeatedly.

Course Learning Objectives: The main purpose of this course is to introduce students to the basic concepts, strategies and tactics that comprise marketing. Students learn about and apply concepts and skills related to marketing analysis, marketing strategy, and execution of the marketing mix. Coverage includes creation, communication, and delivery of value to targeted audiences, selected through the process of segmentation, targeting, and customer analysis, and concludes with the development of an effective marketing plan.

Additionally, this course will help you develop skills in marketing analysis and decision making by providing you with practice in assessing and solving marketing problems. The objectives of this course include understanding the following topics:

1. Role of marketing in organizations

4. Consumer behavior
5. Segmentation, targeting and positioning
6. Marketing mix – product, price, promotion, and distribution (The infamous 4 Ps of marketing)

The Group Marketing Plan [Written Report = 30%]

Students will form self-selected groups of 3 members. Choose a product/brand for which you would like to develop a marketing plan. One member of each group should send an email addressed to me indicating clearly the product category and the company/brand. See textbook for a Sample Marketing Plan.

The Marketing Plan document (Maximum 2500 words+ References and Exhibits) should flow as follows:

1. Cover Page: Team Name, Course Name, Date.
2. Executive Summary: A brief overview of the entire report
3. Situation Analysis: An analysis of the product features, major competitors, current consumers, distribution, and advertising and promotion strategies. Perform a SWOT analysis.
4. Segmentation and Targeting: Examine the market structure using multiple segmentation criteria. Explain the rationale for selecting the segments that you plan to target.
5. Positioning Strategy: Develop a differentiation and positioning strategy that you expect will deliver the right value proposition to your target segments.
6. Marketing Mix Actions (4Ps): Elaborate your chosen strategy by focusing on each of the 4 Ps of marketing. Develop an appropriate advertising approach.
7. References: Cite your sources
8. Exhibits: Tables, graphs, figures, pictures etc.

It is recommended that you start working together as a team on the Marketing Plan right away. The Marketing Plan has to be an original piece of work that reflects the efforts of the members of the group. While accessing external sources including books, magazines the Internet is allowed, submitting plans (or parts of a plan) that already exist in other formats, whether in print or from the internet, is not acceptable.

Home Works [10 X 2 = 20%]

You will have to submit 2 individual HWs in this course. You can consult external sources freely, but this assignment is supposed to reflect individual effort. They will give you direct experience in using the concepts we cover in class. The assignment reports are not to exceed 2 typewritten pages (excluding attachments and exhibits). They should be handed in at start of the class on the day indicated on the syllabus. Please note that the submission date for each assignment is different and I will not accept any assignment after the submission date for that assignment.
