Class Hours:

This course will have 60 class hours, including 32 lecture hours, professor 8 office hours, 8-hour TA discussion sessions, 4-hour review sessions, 8-hour extra classes.

Course Description

This course will be conducted on the basis of two divergent goals. Our first goal is to achieve basic fluency in the dominant, internationally employed frameworks for structuring the modern global past, with a focus on the prevailing narratives of the 19th and 20th centuries. Our second goal is to practice thinking historically, that is, to critique the dominant narratives of world history using the tools of evidence, perspective, logic, and imagination. Why do these narratives shape our historical knowledge instead of others? In pursuit of these goals, we will:

- Briefly review the period of the “Columbian Exchange,” when transatlantic slavery and European conquest of indigenous American societies provided the West with the resources necessary to disrupt existing world empires and to create the first fully global system of commerce.
- Study the wave of political revolts that rocked the globe in the 18th and 19th c., from the American and French revolutions through the rejection of Iberian authority in South America.
- Analyze the fundamental shift in world history brought by the large-scale conversion to fossil fuels and the many “industrializations” that accompanied this development.

- Trace the violence of the “New Imperialism” and the demise of its ideological foundation in the cataclysm of world war.
- Discuss the challenges to liberal democracy and colonial domination that culminated in another, far more disastrous world war.
- Study the global geopolitics and cultural dissemination of the second half of the 20th c.
- Briefly analyze the new globalism made possible by the digital revolution.

Required Textbooks:

- Valerie Hansen and Kenneth R. Curtis, Voyages in World History. Brief Edition. Volume 2: Since 1500. Second Edition. Cengage, 2016.
- Erez Manela, The Wilsonian Moment: Self-Determination and the International Origins of Anticolonial Nationalism. Oxford, 2009.
- Thomas Mann, Mario and the Magician. Orig. pub. 1929. Any edition will do.
- Excerpts from primary materials and additional supplemental materials will be made available to the students.

Requirements:

Examinations: There will be a midterm and a cumulative final examination. Both will be a combination of essay and short answer, along with oral consultation with the professor. Exams should be written in Word Doc form, not pdf, so that the instructor can comment directly on the work.

Homework/Exercises/Quizzes: There will be occasional quizzes and exercises assigned through the lecture and in discussion sections. Exercises should be written in Word Doc form, not pdf, so that the instructor can comment directly on the work. Oral consultation with the professor may be required to confirm the independence of the submitted exercises.

Discussion Participation: Students should come to all Discussion Sessions prepared to talk about that week’s lectures and assigned reading. Attendance will be taken.

Evaluation:

Discussion Participation	10%
Quizzes and Exercises	20%
Midterm Exam	30%
Final Exam	40%
	100%

Grading System (1 ~ 100)

Online Learning Policy:

Without your regular engagement with the materials and energetic participation in discussion sessions, you will not achieve the objectives of the class. Students are expected to watch the recorded lectures and take notes, read all the assigned materials, complete all assignments and exams, and attend all synchronous discussion sections. Roll will be taken at discussion. Oral discussion with the professor will be required to confirm the independence of exams, papers, and exercises submitted.

Academic Integrity and Class Policies:

- Each student must pursue his or her academic goals honestly and be personally accountable for all submitted work. Representing another person's or a machine's work as your own is always wrong. All work other than the student's must be cited appropriately. Any instance of academic dishonesty will result in penalties ranging from failure of the assignment, to failure of the course, to ejection from the program.
- Exercises, quizzes, and exams must be turned in on time to receive full credit.
- Each student is expected to read the assigned materials, listen to the recordings, take notes during the recordings, and use ONLY these materials as the basis for your own written exercises and exams.
